1. Advisory Council Member Responsibilities

The Federal Home Loan Bank of Indianapolis (the “Bank”) expects each member of the Bank’s Affordable Housing Advisory Council (an “Advisory Council Member”) to maintain the highest standards of honesty, integrity, impartiality and conduct at all times. Advisory Council Members are expected to conduct themselves both professionally and personally so as to avoid engaging in activities that appear to compromise, that have the potential to compromise, or that actually compromise the Advisory Council Member’s duties and responsibilities to the Bank or negatively impact the Bank’s regulatory compliance, name, reputation for integrity or the perceived competence of the Affordable Housing Advisory Council (the “Advisory Council”) or the Bank’s management or Board of Directors (the “Board”). These requirements are essential because of the Bank’s unique role in serving public policy as a Government-Sponsored Enterprise (“GSE”), as well as the Bank’s fundamental responsibility to its Members. As such, each Advisory Council Member has duties of both care and loyalty to the Bank.

Advisory Council Members are expected to constantly exercise individual judgment as to whether their actions will meet these standards when viewed through the eyes of the law, the Federal Housing Finance Agency (the “Finance Agency”), the Board, Members and the general public.

Advisory Council Members have an obligation to avoid any action, whether or not specifically prohibited by law, Finance Agency regulations, Bank policy or by this Code of Conduct and Conflict of Interest Policy for Affordable Housing Advisory Council Members (the “Code of Conduct”), which might result in (i) the use of an Advisory Council Member’s position for personal gain, (ii) giving preferential treatment to any organization or person, (iii) losing independence or impartiality, (iv) making decisions outside official channels, or (v) adversely affecting the confidence of the public in the integrity of the Bank or any Federal Home Loan Bank (an “FHLBank”).

There are numerous federal, state and local laws that apply to the Bank, including but not limited to the regulations and policies of the Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”), the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network (“FinCEN”), and the Finance Agency. Advisory Council Members are expected to conduct all Bank business dealings in accordance with these laws and regulations. Violating any of them could subject the Advisory Council Member or the Bank to criminal and civil penalties. Questions about any laws or how they apply to particular situations, should be discussed with the Bank’s General Counsel or his or her designee (the “General Counsel”).

Advisory Council Members are responsible for being familiar with and complying with the Code of Conduct and all its provisions as well as with and complying with all Bank policies that are applicable to Advisory Council Members and their duties. These include, but are not limited to the Disclosure Policy, the Anti-Fraud Policy, the Policy Prohibiting Insider Trading of Securities, and the Whistleblower Policy. Advisory Council Members are expected to conduct Bank business in compliance with all Bank policies. Questions about these requirements should be discussed with the General Counsel.

Any violation of the Code of Conduct, any Bank policy referenced herein, or any other Bank policy to which Advisory Council Members are otherwise subject, as well as any potential or reasonably likely failure to continue to meet the qualifications to be appointed an Advisory Council Member¹, will be cause for corrective action, such as review by the Board and, potentially, a request for divestment of a conflicting Financial Interest or a request of resignation or removal from the Advisory Council. These actions may be in addition to any civil or criminal penalties or sanction, or immediate removal required by Finance Agency regulations or applicable law.

All Advisory Council Members are strictly prohibited from directly or indirectly taking any action to coerce, manipulate, mislead or fraudulently influence the Bank's internal auditors or independent registered public accounting firm for the purpose of rendering the Bank's financial statements or other financial reporting misleading.

2. Code of Conduct Interpretation

The provisions set forth in the Code of Conduct are principles-based and intended to be interpreted and applied under a reasonableness standard. Provisions in the Code of Conduct are not inclusive of all matters which may arise which would reasonably be viewed as violations of the Code of Conduct. Because of the Bank's expectations of compliance and the potential consequences of noncompliance (including removal required by Finance Agency regulations), questions as to how a certain provision applies to a specific set of facts should be discussed with the General Counsel.

In case of a conflict among the requirements of this Policy, applicable law, or applicable regulation (including, without limitation, applicable guidance, advisory bulletins, Q&As, or other written advice of the Federal Housing Finance Agency or the SEC), the following will govern in order of priority: (1) applicable law, (2) applicable regulation, and (3) this Policy.

¹ See the Affordable Housing Advisory Council Charter (available on the Bank's public website) and 12 C.F.R. § 1291.14.

3. Scope

Code of Conduct provisions shall be applicable to Advisory Council Members and interpreted in the context of the limited activities of the Advisory Council. In addition, the Finance Agency has adopted regulations governing the responsibility and eligibility of Advisory Council Members; however, those regulations do not fully address all the obligations that are the subject of the Code of Conduct. As part of this regulatory framework, Advisory Council Members are required to execute annually, and supplement as necessary, the Advisory Council Member eligibility certification prescribed by the Finance Agency. Subsequent to the most recent eligibility certification, an Advisory Council Member is required to promptly contact the General Counsel if the Advisory Council Member believes or has reason to believe there are changes in the information previously provided in the Advisory Council Member's most recent eligibility certification.

4. Effective Date and Amendments

This revised version of the Code of Conduct is effective as of the date set forth on the cover hereof and may be amended at any time at the discretion of the Board.

5. Distribution, Training and Verification of Compliance

Advisory Council Members will be provided a copy of the Code of Conduct and the policies (including any amendments thereto) referenced herein as part of the Advisory Council Member Orientation. And, as part of their annual Code of Conduct training, will sign a certification of compliance and an acknowledgement, to be filed with and maintained by the Corporate Secretary, indicating his or her on-going compliance with the Code of Conduct and the policies referenced herein. Advisory Council Members are required to review all amendments to the Code of Conduct since the date of their most recent certification. A copy of the Code of Conduct and the policies referenced herein (together with any amendments thereto) will be posted on the Advisory Council portal.

Advisory Council Members are appointed by the Board for three-year terms. Advisory Council Members are to be appointed from a diverse range of organizations so that representatives of no one group constitute an undue proportion of the Council membership, taking into account the size of the Bank's district and the diversity of low- and moderate-income housing and community lending needs and activities within the district.

Advisory Council Members should always use their best judgment and exercise personal responsibility in protecting information learned through service to the Bank. Any questions relating to this requirement can be discussed with the General Counsel or the Corporate Secretary.

A. Casual Conversations

Even casual conversations held with acquaintances and family members can violate the duty of confidentiality. Even if an Advisory Council Member states that the conversation is confidential, the other party may not understand the significance of a breach of that confidence. Even when no harm or criminal wrongdoing is intended, confidential information of the Bank that if communicated to anyone outside the Bank could be used to compromise the integrity of the Bank, the Finance Agency or any FHLBank must remain confidential. When in doubt, Advisory Council Members should always consider information learned related to the Bank's business to be confidential unless informed otherwise.

Proprietary information may not be disclosed or used outside the Bank by an Advisory Council Member without written pre-approval by the General Counsel.
